Them Music. Rendings, and Enter More Ample Rooms Are Receded—A Fair in Pifth Avenue to Raise Money for Them —Fashsonsbir Women who Conducted It

Throngs of people crowded their way brough the beautifully decorated and spacious rooms of Miss Annie Brown's school and resi-dence in Fifth avenue all yesterday afternoon and evening, in attendance on the fair given for the benefit of the Fifty-ninth Street Working Girls' Club. This club, founded and organized by Miss Margaret Thorne some two years ago, has increased so rapidly that new accomnedations are necessary, and the object of the fair is to raise money with which to procure them. Among the patronesses of the fair are Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Mrs. William C, Whitney, Mrs. E. S. Crosby, Mrs. Richard Irvin, Jr., Mrs. A. M. Dodge, and Miss A. Brown. Most of these ladies were actively engaged in the du-ties of the occasion. Mrs. Cleveland, however, though expected to be present, was only represented by some 300 photographs of her own fair face, with her autograph attached, which seemed to be selling quite as readily as any other article on the well-filled tables. Mr. Renry Irving and Miss Ellen Terry also contributed autograph photographs, which found ready sale. The officers of the society are Miss Margaret B. Thorne, President; Miss Susan De F. Day, Treasurer; Miss Mary B. Bohleffelin, Secretary. The managers are Mrs. J. McCook, Mrs. Constant Andrews. Mrs. George R. Fearing, Mrs. Sturgis, Misses Julia Isham, E. White, Watson, and C. White.

The most attractive and unique features of the fair were found in the Japanese tea room. under the management of Mrs. Constant Andrews. The large school room was devoted to this purpose, and fitted up in most correct and gorgeous style by the First Japanese Trading Company, and the floral decorations were greented to the society by Mr. Klunder.

The costumes of the young ladies were very rich and effective, and many of them heavily embeddened and records with such week.

The Working Girls' Club consists of shop girls, each girls, factory girls, and sewing girls—in fact, all lateoring girls who care to join and keep up their fees of twenty-five cents a month. The rooms of the society are open every night, and those who go there receive free instruction from the teacher of a college class, whose plan is practical education in the necessary knowledge required for their work. One society lady who has, as she says, a little knack for dressmaking, instructs them in the art of cutting and fitting their gowns, and allows them to bring their own work. Another teaches them to sew neutly, another to cook simple dishes, and one svening each week a physician instructs them in the simple science of anatomy and the necessary laws of physiclogy which will snable them to care for their own health. One little society girl with deft, skilful fingers, teaches them to trim their own bonnets, and Mrs. Sturgis instructs them in the art of making pretty fancy articles of inexpensive materials that they will enjoy making and can earn money by solling.

Thursday is specially set anart for amusements of some kind, but every evening ladies file. Mrs. Sturgis, Mrs. McCook. Miss Ward, Miss Thorne and others go to the rooms and enterfairs the girls by reading aloud to them; take their mandolins and guitars, and sing for them; or take carde and games, and play with them, or simply talk with them as friend with friend.

It keeps them out of the street," said one of the managers, "gives them a pleasant place to go in a social way, and heips them in their work. They seem to egopy and appreciate it, for there are never less than thirty there when the rooms are open. It is not simply a charitable institution, for the girls pay their fees promptly. I find lovely girls and women among them whom I epjoy being with and we only try to help them to help themselves.

DR DIX ON SEVERA

The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity Church, preached last evening the final sermon of his Lenten course on "The Seven Mortal" Sina." Trinity Chapel was crowded with a fashionable congregation. The rector had pre-viously discoursed of anger, covetousness, lust, and pride. In this sermon he spoke about gluttony, sloth, and envy, grouping the three in one sermon, as he said, for lack of time to devote an hour to each.

Sloth and gluttony, he said, are rather private than public sins. But envy stands among the seven mortal sins as the one that does not give even the transitory pleasure that is claimed for the others. Pride, anger, covetousness, and lust may each give some temporary gratification. The lustful man thinks there are no pleasures so exquisite as those which he in his lustfulness enjoys. Envy alone of the seven deadly sins brings with it no satis-rich, the comfortable, and the happy. The demagogues are busy in appealing to the passions of the lower classes of society, and talk of overthrowing society and bringing on a uniform level of social equality. It is not the friend of the poor who thus stirs up the spirit of envy. The true friend of the poor will seek to better their condition. Envy begins a misery which must continue beyond the grave; it is eternal torture for the envious to look from their place upon the blessed lives of the sainta. Envy is the conclusion which comes in the progress of sin. Pride, inxury, profligacy, intemperance, covetousa-sa, and indulgence lead down to the sombre place where envy lies and survives in perpetual torment, capable of nothing but the naired of the good.

Dante speaks of "Coming to rebehold the stars, and to look again at the bright stars in the kingdom of God. This leads to the reflection that there is a great mystery in the group of the seven numerals. As the number "I" is connected with the sins, soit is with our redemption. There were seven lamps borne before the throne. There were seven lamps borne before the throne. There were seven spirits of God. There are seven seals to be opened. Seven angels shall sound, and seven last woes shall come on the earth. St. John saw the Son of Man with seven stars, and walking in the midst of seven golden candes icks. There are seven petitions of the Lord's Prayer, seven gifts of the Holy Ghost, seven hours of the canonical day. The beatitudes of the Gospel and the seven petitions of the Lord's Prayer are aimed at the seven deadly sins.

Beven gifts come to us in our confirmation. In mediaval days the sacramental ordinances were limited to seven. This branch of the Church rejects five, and speaks of two only as necessary to salvation. But it seems perfectly likely that the rejection of five of the seven were limited to seven. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 23 .- Justice H. B. Smith of the Sixth Judicial district has just rendered a decision in the famous case of Jen-nie Munson agt. Thomas L. Benham, denying the application made by the defendant for a the application made by the defendant for a new trial. The action was brought to recover $20,000 damages for an alleged criminal as-sault, and at a recent term of the Delawars County Circuit the jury awarded the plaintiff $5,000. The application for a rehearing of the case was based on admission of alleged incompetent testimony. This decision probably ends the litigation.

The plaintiff, Miss Jennie Munson, belongs to a highly respectable family in Franklin, Delaware county, and is a charming and vivacious brunette of about 22 years. She is highly edu-a highly respectable family in Franklin, Delaware county, and is a charming and vivacious brunette of about 22 years. She is highly educated, and has ability as an artist. Thomas L. Beaham, the defendant, is a wealthy tobacconist of Utica, nearly 60 years of age, and has been long married.

The story of the offence was dramatically told by the plaintiff on the witness stand. She testified that she first became acquainted with Benham in June, 1883, on the occasion of her graduation with high honors at the Delaware Literary Institute at Franklin. Benham was then a member of the Board of Trustees, and a liberal patron of the institute. He had donated a fund to the institution providing for an annual award of "Benham prizes" to pupils for meritorious standing in certain departments of study. At a second meeting, shortly after her graduation. Benham complimented her on her skill and talent in painting, and gave her orders for several pictures. When the orders were filled he professed a friendly interest in her weifare, and suggested that she ought to continue her studies in a school of design in New York rity, and offered to defray the expenses of a term or two at the Cooper Union, and leave it for her to reimburse him when she had earned the money. Har parents approving, she accented the offer. During her stay in the city Mr. Benham was a frequent caller at her boarding house, and of ten invited her to take dinner with him at his hottel, and to accompany him to theatres and other places of amusement. She occasionally accepted such invitations and on one of these occasions, after dining with him at the Grand Central Hotel, she retired to a private room to arrange her toliet before going with him to the theatre. He followed her to the room, she said, and assaulted her. Her story was corruborated, so far as their knowledge went, by the evidence of her father and mother.

Benham is tail, gray-haired, and ungainly. He desiled the story of the assault, and said that all the favors he had extended to her were inspired by

A Burgiar's Witnesses Threatened with Trial for Perjury.

It is possible that the public may soon be treated to another phase of the Bridgeport jewelry robbery of July 17, 1887, for which Kid McManus and Joe Dollard are now serving terms in State prison. It will be remembered that these criminals were run down and arrested by Pinkerton's men, who were retained rested by Pinkerton's men, who were retained for the work by the Jewellers' Security Alliance Association. Mr. J. B. Bowden, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the association, told a reporter of This Sun yeaterday that the committee, at its next meeting, would discuss the advisability of taking steps to secure the prosecution for perfury of the witnesses produced by McManus at the habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Bartlett in Brooklyn, on Aug. 29, to swear that he was in New York the night of the commission of the burgiary. When McManus was arraigned for trial in Connecticut, instead of bringing forward the witnesses who had testified to his alibi hefore Judge Bartlett, he entered a plea of guilty, and was sontened to four years in State prison.

ALBANY, March 23 .- Mr. E. Howard Crosby gave formal notice in the Assembly to-day that he will soon move to read his High License bill out of the regular order, and that he will then move a call of the House. This shows that Mr. Crosby thinks he has enough Republican votes to pass the bill. He can expect little assistance from the Democrata, although it is possible that one Democrat, Mr Bagley of Greens county, may vote with him. If so, he will then need 64 Republican votes. Judging from the first test vote on high license, three weeks ago, before the bill was made a Republican caucus measure, Beatty of Ulster, Donaldson of Saratoga, Gallagher of Erie, Morgan of New York, Relix of Brooklyn, and possibly Adams of New-burgh, Goerss of Niagara, Mable of Putnam, and Smith of Sullivan will vote against him or iodge, which is the same thing in effect. If two of the nine can be reclaimed he is safe. He has sixty-two votes anyhow, and needs only three more. All the party and caucus pressure has been brought to bear on the doubtful Republicans to make them vote for the bill. Mr. Crosby evidently thinks that he has reclaimed enough of them from the liquor influence of their district to carry the measure. It will be interesting to see whether he succeeds. If the Republicans were sure that the Governor would veto the bill there would be no difficulty in passing it. Their fear is that the Governor may sign the bill, and put the responsibility on the Bepublican Legislature that passed it, Senator Murphy's objection prevented the consideration of Senator Low's resolution to extend the time of the trust investigation committee during the summer. Senator Low tried twice to have his resolution considered. Once Senator Murphy called for the enforcement of the ninth joint rule, which gives the third reading of bills precedence, and the second time a motion to adjourn was carried. Mr. Cromwell of Staten Island and Mr. T. D. Sullivan of Paradise Park settled their differences to-day, and have temperarily become legislative brethren. Mr. Cromwell is a Young college man. He is in Elihu Root's law office. and was elected by the good people of Staten and was elected by the good people of Staten Island to rebuke Edward Augustus Moore, who has been accused of being wicked. He is not an experienced legislator and has not the knack of getting his billisthrough. Mr. Sullivan is serving his second term, and is well known as the author of the bill to abolish the Organ Grinding's Trust, the bill to protect peanut stands, and the bill to authorize the erection of soda-water fountains on the sidewalka. Mr. Cromweil's bill to extend the bulkhead line of Staten Island in the interest of Erastus Wiman and his projects, and Mr. Sullivan's bill to require the Staten Island Ferry Company to sell ten ticke's for fifty cents, came out of the committee at the same time, and each gentleman moved that his bill be ordered to a third reading. There has been some slight jealousy between these two young and estimable Assemblymen for some time, and each objected to the other's bill. Through the kind mediation of Col. Robert Ray Hamilton, who is a well-known peacemaker despite his military titles, the two gentlemen were brought together, and in a spirit of mutual concession withdrew their objections to each other's bill, and they were at once ordered to third reading.

The Judiciary Committee of the Assembly reported a modified Electoral Reform bill in such shape as to prevent cranks running their own tickets, and to require that a man must be able to read before he becomes a Mugwump. The bill gives the entire charge of printing tickets to the State and the counties. Any party representing three percent of the voters, such representation to be shown by signatures, is entitled to have its tickets printed at the expense of the State. These tickets shall be bunched according to the political parties making the nominations, and shall be given out by the election officers. Other ticket peddling is forbidden. To scratch his ticket intelligently a man must know how to read, though a sworn election officer will aid him if he is blind or illiterate.

Senator Fassett's bill to prevent the selling or giving away of cigars, eigarettes, or tobacco to minors was favorably reported in the Senate and was ordered to a third reading.

Senator Linson, the author of the amendments to the Quarantine Fee bill which made it innocuous, made an able speech on the whole quarantine question to-day. Senator Linson is a new Senator and a good lawyer. He has spent considerable time in studying up the Quarantine matter, and he attacked the Republican position in a thoughtful argument. He said that it was a mistake of the Republicane from a political point of view, as well as from a public standpoint, to cling to the Quarantine office as they have done. The salaries of the Quarantine offices sthey have done. The salaries of the Quarantine offices are used for political purposes, especially in close Senatorial districts. Under Republican management the Quarantine office are used for political purposes, especially in close Senatorial districts.

tain these piaces shows that the revenues of the Quarantine office are used for political purposes, especially in close Senatorial districts. Under Eepublican management the Quarantine office has become an injury to commerce and a reproach to the Republican party. The fees should be reduced and the office put on a business basis. He was glad that such a bill had been passed. It still remained to confirm good men for Quarantine Commissioners. This he trusted the Senate would soon do.

Judge Greene's bill to incorporate the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company. to build a bridge from Washington Heights across the Hudson, was favorably reported in the Assembly.

Dalton's Additional High School bill, Aspinall's Brooklyn Coroner's Office bill, and Talimadge's Brooklyn Twenty-sixth Ward Improvement bill are also favorably reported.

There are two bills affecting the New York Board of Aldermen in which they are greatly interested. One by Mr. Walton makes the term of the President of the Board two years, or coincident with the term of the Mayor. This bill was favorably reported and is likely to pass. Mr. Brennan introduced the other bill, which is more to the Aldermen's liking. It makes their term of office two years and raises their salary to $5,000. It is expected that a delegation of Aldermen will appear to favor the bill.

A bill was introduced in the Assembly to give their uniforms free to firemen and policemen who have served over five years.

Mr. Bhodee's bill to make New York city pay for the highway and road expenses of its parks in the annexed district passed the Assembly, so did Mr. Hoesch's bill to make New York city pay for the highway and road expenses of its parks in the annexed district passed the Assembly, so did Mr. Hoesch's bill to have the New York Board of Education form special classes for instruction in the English language. The bill is meant especially for the German bakers, who cannot attend school at ordinary hours.

The concurrent resolution asking the Federal Government to return the amoun iected as a tax on travelling men was also passed.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Gen. H. W. Slocum as trustee of the Bath Boldiers' and Sallors' Home. The names of the other trustees were laid over.

Benator Hawkins, who is home ill, had offered in his name a bill to prevent the city of Brooklyn taking more than 40,000,000 gallons of water a day from Queens county. A meter is to be attached to the water pipes, and the inhabitants of Queens county who are at leisure may sit around the meter and watch it, to see that Kings county is not beating them.

Both Houses adjourned a few minutes before the usual time, in respect to the memory of Morrison it. Walte, late Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Gen. Husted and Senator Vedder made the motions.

Several car loads of women will leave for Washington to-day to attend the International Council of Women, which meets at Washing-ton every day next week, under the direction of the National Woman Suffrage Association. Some of the foreign delegates left yesterday. Mrs. Ashton Wentworth Dilke goes this morning. The sessions in Washington will be attended by delegates from almost every State, besides enthusiasts who are taking advantage of reduced railroad fares on all the trunk lines. The Convention will be opened to-morrow with religious services, conducted by six women ministers. Discussions during the week will be had upon the education, philanthropies, temperance, industries, and legal and political conditions of women. A session for women alone, on March 30, will discuss "Social Purity."

DOING PARTY BUSINESS.

The Republican Legislature at Trea posing of the Routine Work TRENTON, March 28.—The Republican caucus to-day considered the matter of the ap-pointment by the Governor of the two Dicks— Reading and Herring—for Riparian Commis-sioners, and decided that the nominations should be confirmed, and that then the bill vesting the appointment hereafter in the Legisshould be confirmed, and that then the bill vesting the appointment hereafter in the Legislature should be passed over the Governor's veto. The same course will undoubtedly be taken with the rest of the Governor's Republican nominees and the bills in relation to the offices they are to fill. The Governor's action has relieved the Republicans of the necessity of making invidious distinctions between a number of eligible candidates, and of the edium of making important public effices rocats for red-hot partisan workers, both of which responsibilities have been much dreaded by the conservative leaders among the Republicans. As scothing syrup for the Republicans, Gov. Green has been a fine dose.

The Republicans in the Assembly passed to day their bill to annex Chambersburg and Millham te Trenton, changing that city from a Democratic to a Republican one. It has still to pass the Beasts and the Governor's veto, but will probably become a law along with the rest of the caucus bills.

The supplement to the High License law, designed to head off the smart men in Newark and Jersey City, who are seeking to evade the new law by arranging for a wholesale granting of licenses for the coming year at present rates before high license goes into effect, passed the Senate to-day, and will now go to the Governor.

The engineers of the North Jersey pure water corner put their second bill through the Assembly to-day, 38 to 16. It gives Jersey City and Newark City Boards power to make any sort of a twenty-five-year contract they please with the water jobbers, and relieves them in some degree of criminal responsibility for their acts. It has still to pass the Senate.

The committee appointed a good while ago to investigate the charge that some member of the Legislature had gone to Taylor's Hotel in Jersey City and from there sent word to Matthlessen & Weichers, the sugar house firm, that he was ready to receive bids for his vote on the Washington Street Bridge bid, reported to-day that they had been unable to find out anything about heasion, which, by the way, is not confined to wall street. Mr. Gould's action relative to the pending question of the Missouri Pacific div-idend is of interest not only to the stockholders of that company, but to all who are interested in the stock market, for the reason that nearly every one believes that it will indicate what Mr. Gould's attitude, is toward the vast properties he controls. His position is important not only because he controls these properties, but because of his shifty to mismanage them to the temporary detriment of all corporate interests. It is important also because he is one of the largest advidual holders of securities dealt in upon the Stock Exchange. That he has sold a great many of his securities during the last year there can be no doubt, and there are many shrewd observers in Well street who believe that he is still disposing of them, and that he will not stop until he has closed out all of his junior securities. No one questions his right to do so, but it is the tear that he has used and is still using the advantage he tossesses to manipulate the properties that he controls that has depressed all of the securities with which his name is associted, and for the moment practically demoralis... It is investment and speculative markets.

So far as Missouri Pacific is concerned, the facts are that official reports of the most gratifying character that have been laid before the public during the last few months have falled to impart any stability to the stock, although the transactions have been large. The decline in the price of the stock has prevented the company from obtaining a satisfactory price for bonds it has issued on account of new mileace constructed and acquired, hence its income has been diverted and used in place of the prospective proceeds of the bonds. This condition of things presents no new problem in corporate financiering, and one that is usually solved if the credit of the concern is good or worth preserving by borrowing in anticipation of a sale of such securities. If the Company has earned a dividend, as Mr. Gould would have us believe is the case with Missouri Pacific, and there is not sufficient cash in the treasury to pay one, as some of his associates in the management assert, the stockhelders money has been loaned to construction account; but this is no reason why the stockholders should suffer. This problem in much more intricate forms has undoubtedly been soived more than once by the President of the Missouri Pacific, and there is not sufficient cash in the treasury to pay one, as some of his associates in the management assert, the stockhelders money has been loaned to construction account; but this is no reason why the stockholders should suffer. The holders of a large amount of the securities of the Missouri, Ransas and Texas Railway Company who are dissatisfied with the present management of that property have called a meeting of security holders to be held on Monday, March 26, at 3% o'clock, at 10 Wall street. It is expected that at this meeting a protective organization will be formed similar to the one that has been formed by the Dutch holders of these securities, and with which it is the purpose of the American stock and bondholders to cooperate. It is believed that those who have taken the preliminary steps in this matter represent about 200,000 shares, or nearly one-half of the stock, and also a very large amount of boads. The call for the meeting is signed by a number of the largest and oliest houses in the street, including L. von Hoffman & Co., Edward Sweet & Co., I. & 8, Wormser, Work, Strong & Co., Weston & De Billier, Woerishoffer & Co., and the representative here of the Amsterdam holders.

A CHILD'S LIFE SAVED.

When six menths old the left hand of our little grant-child began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We positioed its but all to ne purpose. About five menths after it became a runsing sore. Some other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid seah, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-twe months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mether having the when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (serefuls. of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the OUTICURA REMEMBER, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA and Freely, and when he had taken one bettle of the CUTICURA REcommenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIER, sening use the CUTICURA and CUTICURA ARE SOLVENT his head was completely cured, and he was improved in avery way. We were very much encouraged, and sontinued the use of the Remedies for a year and a haif. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these dree deep ones just before healing, which would finally grew loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugity bone formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is new, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The sears on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES and see the child now consider it a wonderful cure. If the above facts are of any use to you are at liberty to use them. May 8, 1886. diz East Clay st., Bloomington, Ill. The child was really in a worse condition than he appeared to his grandmother, who, being with him overy day, became accustomed to the disease.
